

Calls For Transcontinental Highway

Governors Split On Ike's Huge Road Building Plan

BOLTON LANDING, N.Y. (AP) — Governors divided sharply today on how to carry out President Eisenhower's bold proposal for a 50-billion-dollar transcontinental highway program.

Almost without exception, Republican and Democratic governors agreed that the country needs a 10-year expansion of roads that would shape up as one of the country's greatest permanent, nonwar construction programs.

But there was a distinct feeling among leaders of the 46th annual Governors Conference here that the President had laid down a challenge to them in the historic controversy over state and federal powers.

Against a backdrop of conference demands that the federal government get out of the road-building business, Vice President Nixon put to the governors at their annual state dinner last night a presidential suggestion for an interstate road program designed to provide transport for 200 million Americans by 1970.

Reading notes the President had prepared for a speech which Eisenhower canceled after the death of a sister-in-law, Nixon told the governors in the President's words that the "appalling inadequacies" of America's highways must be solved "to meet the demands of catastrophe or defense should war come."

Eisenhower suggested that the governors study a proposal for federal-state cooperation under which Washington might "advance funds or guarantee the obligations of localities or states which undertake to construct new or modernize existing highways."

To some governors who had been plugging for abolition of federal gasoline and auto taxes so the states could finance their own road building, this sounded not only like continuation of the federal aid program but an expansion of it.

Gov. Dan Thornton, Colorado Republican and chairman of the conference, gave reporters this interpretation of the President's message:

"The President is tossing a challenge to the governors. He says $50 billion dollars is needed for roads in the next 10 years. The states are being offered the opportunity to go ahead under local management."

"The inference is that if the states don't do it, the federal government will."

In advance of a conference panel discussion of the issue, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York said in a separate interview that he does not believe the President necessarily implied that the federal government must remain in the road-building business.

But he said he regards as "inevitable" such a large-scale construction program as Eisenhower suggested — a more than five-fold expansion of the present federal aid highway program of 900 millions a year.

Eisenhower's notes, as read by Nixon, said the present highway system is obsolete and its penalties are manifold.

Among the latter the President listed an annual death toll approaching 40,000, "comparable to the casualties of a bloody war."

He said there was an annual wastage of "billions of hours" in traffic jams and detours, amounting to billions of dollars in productive time. He mentioned countless civil suits, more than half of which originate on the highways, and "the nullification of efficiency in the production of goods by the inefficiency in the transport of goods."

Eisenhower suggested self-liquidating programs "through tolls or the assured increase in gas tax revenues" as well as "federal help where the national interest demands it."

BOILERMAKERS END STRIKE

CLEVELAND (AP) — The AFL Boilermakers Union ended a strike yesterday against contractors in 19 Northeast Ohio counties and two Northwest Pennsylvania counties. The union and the contractors' association reached a contract agreement providing pay raises of 7½ cents an hour retroactive to June 14 and an additional five cents an hour beginning Nov. 1. The workers, who left their jobs after a breakdown in contract talks May 31, agreed to return today.

Worst Heat Wave Of '54 Bakes Nation

By The Associated Press

The biggest heat wave so far this summer baked central sections of the nation today with little relief in sight.

At least eight deaths were attributed to the heat.

The mercury zoomed to an unofficial 121 degrees in Pittsburgh, Kas., yesterday and plus-100-degree readings were common from the Rockies eastward to the Great Lakes.

Local water shortages developed in some communities from the heat and lack of rainfall, but no widespread crop damage has developed yet.

In Kansas City, where the temperature reached 109, so many people turned on their air conditioners that power lines became overloaded. The Kansas City Power and Light Co. said power hit an all-time high last night.

Midwest City, an Oklahoma City suburb of 20,000, ran out of water as 107-degree heat led to record consumption. Officials said shortages will occur daily as long as the heat continues.

These all-time high heat records were set yesterday:

Columbia, Mo., 113; Springfield, Mo., 108; Rapid City, S.D., 109; Dallas, Tex., 110.3; Oklahoma City, 107; and Casper, Wyo., 104.

Union Asks Changes In Taft-Hartley

CLEVELAND (AP) — Delegates to the CIO Federation of Glass, Ceramic and Silica Sand Workers convention called upon the Administration yesterday to make sweeping changes in the Taft-Hartley Act.

The 66 delegates, who represent 55,000 workers in the United States and Canada, resolved that the Administration should eliminate government injunctions, remove "government interference" with collective bargaining, remove "union weakening" clauses, simplify the law and prevent employer "coercion and intimidation" of employees.

They also asked that the Administration pass a $1.25 an hour minimum wage law, and national housing, highway and public improvement programs.

Lausche Hits High Cost Of Road, School Building

BOLTON LANDING, N.Y. (AP) — Construction costs are pricing schools and roads out of the reach of taxpayers, Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio told the Governors' Conference here yesterday.

He blamed the situation on an Ohio law which he said forces wage payment in rural areas of the state to correspond with wages that prevail in highly industrial, heavily populated areas.

"When we build a road or a public school building in a rural county," he said, "we must pay the wages that prevail in the largest industrial area nearby."

Lausche said the law was adopted because of "pressure and persuasion" but did not comment on any effort to get it repealed.

He said the cost of schools is so high that it cannot be met by some local taxpaying units.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Former Gov. Roy J. Turner withdrew from Oklahoma's runoff primary election last night, automatically giving the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate to Sen. Robert S. Kerr.

The Democratic nomination virtually assures election in Oklahoma.

To Quiz Woman Friend Of Doctor

Given Watch By Slain Woman's Husband

CLEVELAND (AP) — Authorities say they plan to question a former Bay View Hospital medical technician, now living in Downey, Calif., about her relationship with Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard.

The technician, a 24-year-old Miss Susan Hayes, told a reporter last night she was the woman who was given a wrist watch by the Bay Village osteopath, whose pretty, 31-year-old wife was hacked to death last July 4.

The girl's explanation was the same as one Dr. Sheppard told police several days ago.

She said Dr. Sheppard, while attending a medical convention in Los Angeles last March, had asked her to accompany him to the wedding of a friend.

At the wedding, she lost her watch, and the osteopath gave her a new one to replace it. The girl said he had never given her any other gifts.

Assistant County Prosecutor John J. Mahon said he had questioned Dr. Sheppard about his friendship with the woman, and added:

"We intend to go into this further. We intend to talk to the woman about her relationship with Dr. Sheppard."

Badly beaten in a fight the night his wife was bludgeoned, the osteopath is now carrying a .38-caliber, snub-nosed revolver for protection, police said.

Dr. Sheppard said a Bay Village officer suggested he carry the weapon, and he has had it for two days.

Corner Samuel R. Gerber and Det. Carl Rossbach said the brutal nature of the attack — which involved 25 bone-deep blows to Mrs. Sheppard's head — pointed strongly to an insane person.

Columbus Orders Gambling Probe

Lausche Hits Charges City Is 'Wide Open'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Spurred by reports of "wide open gambling" here, city council last night voted 5-2 to appoint a committee to investigate the unofficial charges.

Council President O. J. Fillinger indicated Gov. Frank J. Lausche would be called to testify before the three-man committee along with Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner and State Liquor Director Anthony A. Rutkowski.

But Councilman Jerry Spears Jr., who heads the committee, branded as "just ridiculous" a suggestion that the hearings be televised.

The investigation stems from allegations made by Robert H. Warner to Gov. Lausche last week. Warner, a juke box distributor here, set off a grand jury investigation 14 years ago that resulted in 73 men being indicted for gambling.

Lausche claims the gambling "expose" is a political move to embarrass him and Mayor Sensenbrenner, both Democrats.

Sensenbrenner often has been at odds with city council since his election last fall. Lausche seeks a fifth term this year.

Sensenbrenner said he would welcome the investigation but added:

"I don't know why they're picking on the mayor. This is a job for the chief of police. We have given instructions time and again to get rid of gambling wherever it's found."

Franklin County Prosecutor Frank H. Kearns said he might seek a grand jury investigation of gambling if the evidence warrants it.

But, he added, he is interested "only in facts, not in any 'political charges.'

Pastor Sues To Gain Church Parsonage

DEFIANCE, Ohio (AP) — The Rev. Robert B. Weaver, newly assigned pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Church here, today filed a personal lawsuit against Dr. Joseph C. Richards to gain possession of the church parsonage and garage.

The suit, filed in the court of Justice of the Peace G. J. P. Luoyis, was the latest move in a church squabble which started when Ohio Area Bishop Hazen G. Werner assigned the Rev. Mr. Weaver to the Defiance church and assigned Dr. Richards to Mr. Weaver's former pastorate at Circleville. The new assignments were made about a month ago.

Dr. Richards refused to accept the Circleville appointment, claiming it meant a $4,000-a-year salary cut for him, resigned as a Methodist minister and was appointed by the Defiance church board as the church's business manager with the provision he retain use of the parsonage for his five-year term.

Mr. Weaver's suit did not involve any other church official. It declared that since June 23 Dr. Richards "has unlawfully and forcibly detained from the plaintiff possession of the premises." It added that on July 7 Dr. Richards was served with a written notice to vacate.

Justice Luoyis has not set a date for hearing.

First Things First

With his typical flair for the unexpected and the dramatic, Gov. Lausche descended upon the scene of the annual governors conference Sunday with an announcement of plans for an expansive development of Ohio state parks, lakes and recreational facilities.

Almost everyone is for good parks, beautiful lakes and improved playgrounds, and on the surface it would seem that the governor had struck a responsive chord with the people of Ohio, as he has so many times in the past.

But upon careful scrutiny, his suggestion for using the state surplus to finance his proposed program is certain to run into serious trouble—and justifiably so.

The governor is as familiar as anyone with Ohio's pressing needs. If the state has 25 million dollars, or 40 million or as much as 70 million to spend over and above its budgetary requirements, we have a few suggestions for its use to much better advantage.

In the first place, the cities have been crying for years because so inequitable a percentage of the sales tax money has been returned to them. Cities pour millions of dollars annually into state and federal coffers while municipal governments operate on a comparative pitiful.

But even if the cities' case were not valid, the state has more than enough places to expend the money — on projects, we believe, whose priority is more urgent and whose long-range benefits would be infinitely greater.

Even with the appropriations that have been made, Ohio is far behind other states in facilities for the care of the mentally incompetent. Its institutions for correction, especially for juveniles, are woefully inadequate and overcrowded. Its highways are in a state of deplorable disrepair, and even the half-billion-dollar improvement program approved by the voters last November will fall far short of complete modernization.

It isn't as if the parks and recreational spots had been shamefully neglected. The assembly appropriated $5,575,000 for their maintenance and expansion in the current biennium, not to mention the $2,512,000 for the division of forestry and $6,000,000 for the division of wildlife, most of which is financed from hunting and fishing license fees.

The governor's project has its points of merit, but it completely ignores the good logic of putting first things first. It is our urgent suggestion that the legislature when next it assembles give serious consideration to the compelling needs of our day rather than to those things which would be merely nice to have.

Nothing For U. S. At Geneva

Time is ticking away rapidly for Premier Mendes-France at Geneva this week. His promise to win a truce in Indochina by July 20 or dissolve his government is under the relentless pressure of military events over which he has no control. They are controlled by the Communist-sponsored rebels in Indochina, who will get what they want before they agree to a truce.

The United States has dropped out of the Geneva truce talks. Whatever is agreed on by spokesmen for France, Britain, Communist China, the Indochinese rebels and the other participants will be dissociated from U. S. diplomacy. If it grants too much to the Communist conspiracy, the United States can renege.

Yet, no agreement in southeastern Asia can be effectual unless the United States is willing to back it up with force, if necessary, to keep it from being violated. This fact gives the State Department more influence at Geneva than it would have as an active participant in the truce talks. It has retained the power of decision.

This could be the start of a new kind of foreign policy. This republic's foreign policy aims were described in the United Nations charter — to combine with other peace-loving states in a plan of cooperative security. Its acts since adoption of the charter in 1945 have been consistent with its aims — to discourage aggression and to protect aggressors. Both its aims and its acts, however, have been in conflict with the aims and acts of other governments which had strange problems to worry about, such as trade and colonialism. They have second-guessed the United States at every turn.

Premier Mendes-France and Foreign Minister Eden of Britain are intent on a truce at any price. The United States has nothing to gain at Geneva; its allies have much to lose.

For once, the State Department is going to let them lose it their own way.

Weekends are like Christmas. They come around again before we can pay the bills for the last one.

We've seen some outlandishly fancy belts that should be used just below where teenage youths are wearing them.

International Morality

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Martin Gives Outstanding Speech On Co-Existence

Is there a deterioration in public morals going on in the world among statesmen abroad and among some of the so-called "intellectual" groups in all countries, including our own?

This would hardly be a pertinent question to ask were it not for the news dispatches of recent days bearing on matters of the utmost importance to the advancement of public morals.

Thus a well-known scientist lies to his own government and conceals vital information which misleads the security officers of the United States Army over a period of several months while his own government is engaged in war.

Yet, when he is formally declared, by a competent board, to be a "security risk" for the future, an association of scientists in a public statement gossips over what he did and says there is something wrong with the "security regulations."

The press almost universally has denounced the behavior of the scientist in question but there has been a curious indifference in some other quarters where morality is often discussed.

While sensational sermons were preached in some prominent pulpits a few weeks ago denouncing a certain United States senator who had expressed, in a brusque manner, his dissent from the action of the U. S. Army in awarding an honorable discharge to an officer, not a sermon from those same pulpits has appeared in the headlines about the lack of moral strength of the scientist who put his own arrogant judgment above the wishes of his government in a matter of internal security protection in wartime.

Nor is this an isolated case.

NOT SO LONG ago 83 cadets at West Point, in order to help the football team, violated the honor code of the Academy by cheating in examinations or by helping other cadets to cheat. There were voices raised even in Congress which sought to gloss over what had happened and urged that the Army's decision to dismiss the cadets from the U. S. Military Academy be reversed.

Today there is a large issue of morals imbedded in an international controversy. It has to do with the admission of an immoral government to the United Nations.

The London Times says that "British public opinion looks at the problem as a matter of law and not of morals."

Is it really a matter of law? If we, Britain, would not be opposing the admission into the United Nations of Franco's government in Spain, which controls all of Spanish territory, and certainly the refusal of Soviet Russia to permit the entry of Italy and Japan, which have every basis in international law for admission, shows how hypocritical and insincere is the claim that it is a "question of law."

The truth is it is a question of morals, and an aggressor government's misbehavior is being glossed over in the interest of political expediency in Britain.

PERHAPS THE GREATEST speech of the year thus far on the topic of international morality has just been delivered by speaker Martin of the House of Representatives, who deplored Churchill's proposal for "co-existence" with Communism. He said in part:

"The truth of the matter is that

Health To You

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Thyroid Gland Occasionally Goes Wrong

The thyroid gland which lies at the base of the neck is one of the most important glands of internal secretion. It produces a hormone which influences the general health of the heart, and many other functions of the human body. The best-known difficulty with this gland is goiter.

When the thyroid fails entirely to manufacture its hormone in infancy or early childhood, the result is known as cretinism. An untreated cretin does not grow normally and is seriously underdeveloped. If the diagnosis of this condition can be made early enough, thyroid extract obtained from the glands of animals can be given as a substitute for the normal hormone. Cretinism is rare in most parts of the world.

A complete absence of the formation of the thyroid hormone in grownups results in a condition known as myxedema which is also not common. In myxedema the hair becomes thin, coarse, and loses its sheen. The skin also gets thick and dry.

The pulse is slow and there is a peculiar appearance as though there were fluid underneath the skin. The basal metabolism of a patient with myxedema is generally around minus 40. Anemia is almost always present, and there are other symptoms as well.

Myxedema symptoms can be completely relieved simply by giving the right dose of thyroid tablets by mouth. It is true that this treatment has to be kept up indefinitely, but it is painless, not expensive and completely relieves

Three Men In A Tub

Some Strange Logic

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

The Gray Manufacturing Company of Hartford, Connecticut, some time ago issued an advertisement in a number of publications showing a big ferocious bear. The caption read:

"The Truce of the Bear" and the following stanzas from Rudyard Kipling were quoted:

When he stands up like a tired man, tottering near and near; When he stands up as pleading, in wavering, man-brave guise, When he veils and hate and cunning of his little swinish eyes; When he shows as seeking quarter, with paws like hands in prayer,

That is the time of peril — the time of the Truce of the Bear!"

It was what is known as institutional advertising and expressed the views of Walter Ditmars, the president of the company. The advertisement was issued, as is customary, through an agency, French & Preston, Inc., and was printed in magazines.

I do not know whether such advertisements sell the product of the company because no attempt to do that was made.

APPARENTLY Mr. Ditmars likes Kipling and dislikes Russia.

Thereupon the agency received a formal letter from the American Agencies Interchange of Opinion on Objectionable Advertising. This letter contained the following criticism:

"Poor taste, timing and handling. Giving ammunition to unfriendly nation. Could be used against us."

Mind you, the advertisement consists of nothing but the ferocious bear and Kipling's lines. Kipling has not been poor taste, lo, these many years and it is a little difficult to grasp that the particular unfriendly nation could become more unfriendly than it has been so far as the Truce of the Bear!"

The magazine, "Time," recently referred to me as the high-priest of anti-Communism which I took as a very great compliment, particularly from that publication. I suppose the anti-Communists felt that "Time" had knocked me for a loop. Who knows the foibles of the human mind?

Cops In Photos

The undisturbed mood reflected by police, detectives and other law enforcement officials as they pose for pictures with repulsive punks who have committed outrageous killings is pretty current and hard to take. Not a sign of indignation appeared on the faces of New York officers of the law in pictures taken with one of a pair of extra vicious slayers who then went on a hunt for somebody whose car they could steal and who picked out a husband father fishing on a Manhattan Beach pier. What's become of the old-fashioned cop who became visibly sickened and agitated by foul crimes?

Studying this New York photo of cops you could detect no more concern than if they were posing for a group photo when a Man of the Year. . . . What goes?

There was a time when fear of the police was deep in the hearts of bad actors, but it seems to have disappeared. . . . In fact, the killers of the fisherman then took his car on a hunt for another victim and slugged a pedestrian "who looked like a cop off duty" so they could get his gun! . . . Let's have a few snapshots in which a cop is establishing the mood of a man who would like to punch a killer in the nose, even on coast to coast video! Law enforcement officials who pose languidly and unemotionally with murderers strike us as no help in the war on crime.

In so many cases today the hoodlums have been kept in circulation, despite long records, that we seldom see a picture of them without feeling that beside them as accomplices, should be a few judges, probation officers, prosecutors and institution wardens who in so many instances are responsible for "the events leading up to the crime." . . . Never before in American history have young men, and mere boys, seemed so hardened to revolting crimes.

The natural instinct of a kid is to be kindly and humane. . . . What is there in American life that snuffs out this instinct, renders him cruel as a black panther and makes him capable of crimes against which most savages would draw the line? . . . In our book the fact that kids come up from kindergarten age on a diet of TV horror programs and movie blueprints of murder is largely responsible.

Plenty of Americans would like to see a police chief somewhere come out with the following notice in a station houses:

Fair Warning. Easy on those pictures with foul balls, men. You'll probably have to pose with the punks, but don't act too happy about it. A murderer of schoolgirls should make you sick to your stomach to have your picture taken with him without your indignation showing.

A slayer or accomplice in the slaying of a lone fisherman ought to arouse in you a feeling of revulsion so deep that you couldn't possibly pose with him as if posing with Mr. America. Don't seem so carefree about it, men! Too many other youngsters will see the photo.

Bear, a horse which is winning quite a few races is — you'll never guess it — by Brides Biscuit-Hard Tack.

An African game warden, attacked by a lion, bit it into submission the other day. . . . Didn't get the first bite, either.

John Kiern, famous Info Please star, author and scholar and lifelong resident of the Upper Bronx has developed an affection for the Gloucester, Mass., area and has a house there. . . . We shall keep secret, or nearly so, the fact that the one subject on which he is no authority is fishing.

Everything's gone wrong with the world: We saw five Dodger-Giant games without Leo Durocher in a serious hassle with anybody on the field! . . . Is there no justice?

Rebel Shells Hit French Quarters

Snipers Shot Ring Through San Tay

HANOI, Indochina (AP) — Vietminh mortars shelled French army headquarters at Son Tay, 25 miles northwest of Hanoi, last night and sniper warfare rang through the streets of the defense outpost town of 6,000.

A French army spokesman said civilians were moving out of Son Tay as rebel pressure built up in that sector and across the northern Red River delta defense area.

Forty-one rebels were reported killed and 17 captured in various actions during the night. There was no announcement of French losses.

Attack Highway Guard

Between Son Tay and Hanoi Vietminh guerrillas attacked a French highway guard patrol but were driven off by a tank squadron that rumbled out of Son Tay to the rescue. Twenty Vietminh were killed and seven captured in the roadside fight.

One rebel sniper was killed on a Son Tay street corner but others apparently escaped.

Other fights were reported just north of Hunk Yen, 25 miles southeast of Hanoi, and through the Sept. Pagodes-Luc Nam-Puh Lang Thuong triangle, 35 miles northeast of Hanoi.

Clash At Night

North of Hung Yen, rebel guerrilla and French-Vietnamese patrols clashed in small night battles for possession of the supply road from Hanoi.

In each fight, the French spokesman said, the Vietminh were driven off before their demolition units could cut the road. Twenty rebels were killed and 10 captured in the area.

In the air yesterday, French fighters and bombers plastered Vietminh bases north of Hung Yen with more than 120 tons of high explosives. Other planes bombed a string of rebel bases north of the Hanoi-Haiphong supply lifeline.

ligation issues are paid through taxes levied on property owners.

Rudy Linder, first ward councilman, asked the Malcolm Pirnie engineer to explain some of the conclusions brought forth in the recent preliminary survey his firm submitted to the city.

"We considered a straight activated-sludge plant, a straight trickler filter type plant, construction of a separate plant on the south side of Salem and the recommended compound-type treatment plant," he said.

The compound type, with existing facilities put to use, is the cheapest method of the four, he said.

McPhee assured Councilman Linder that the proposed plant would more than adequately handle Salem's problem and that there would be no more odor or flies than in an activated-sludge type.

Queried on the apparent wide range of estimated cost between the Pirnie company's design of a two-treatment plant system ($142,400) and the Barchhoff plan for the same system ($650,000), McPhee said the big difference was in the type of interceptor Pirnie planned to build.

He also said Barchhoff had planned only to add one disposal unit now and another later, while the New York Company, according to state regulations, would have to put in the two units now.

Other differences lay in the rising cost of construction, sheeting and bracing for the interceptor sewer, and the 20 per cent for contingencies and engineering which the Barchhoff plan did not include, McPhee added.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

The government of the United States has declared war on the Teamsters Union the most powerful, the largest, and, many believe, the most politically influential in the United States. The "war" budget runs into the millions, if properly tallied to include the salaries of the special agents involved and the time the conflict will run until it's settled in the courts.

Never has the government closed in on and surrounded a union as completely as the FBI, congressional committees and the Justice Department have at this moment.

There are six federal grand juries probing the union in the Midwest. The most recent to begin hearings is the one in Kansas City. In addition two congressional committees and, at times, literally hundreds of FBI and other government agents are investigating what has been termed the "core" of the brotherhood of 1,500,000 drivers who keep the nation's wheels rolling.

THE GOVERNMENT'S investigation of this farflung union is not aimed at its president, David Beck, or its international office. The man with whom the government is dueling is a short, stocky young leader, built like the kind of fullback you always hoped would try the other end of the line.

That man is Jim Hoffa, the second most influential man in the Teamsters Union and, as I see him, the most powerful Midwest union leader, controlling the greatest concentration of industrial might.

One of my early mentors once warned me not to make absolute statements in this column, business but this one is safe. There is no tougher adversary anywhere in these United States than Jim Hoffa ninth vice-president of the Teamsters.

The men who push the big trucks across 23 Central states, and 12 Southern states know him as their

Victor Riesel

WHEN I TALKED with Hoffa recently in Chicago's Palmer House, which was well covered by government agents, I got the feeling this and tough and blunt spoken and fellow of woven steel was sort of proud of being their number one target.

He asked no breaks—and warned he'd give none. He was hard sober. His drink was tea and it went down without diluting the impact this man has on you. And impact is the word for it.

To know him is to know many of those younger business-labor leaders who will move from the second to the first echelons in the next 10 or 15 years. Jim Hoffa is a wealthy man. He believes that the modern union chief neither defiles any ethical codes nor betrays his followers by becoming a successful businessman while leading a union.

He sees a thorough consistency in his investing in real estate, summer camps, car haulage companies, oil wells, and insurance brokerage houses while negotiating with other businesses for the scores of thousands in the Central States organization of Teamsters which he leads. Hoffa says it's all legal.

Hoffa who would just as leave tell you to drop dead as talk to you, knows the government has declared war on him.

THE JUSTICE DEPARTMENT has the files of congressional hearings in Detroit. Its agents are searching not only for possible criminal violations but for any evidence of defiance of the Civil Rights law—which is unprecedented stragam.

Government men believe they can make a case out of pressuring employers into forcing their workers to sign up with a particular union. The government has been denied the right to join a union of his choice, or no union at all.

FBI agents are searching for possible violations of the Taft-Hartley law. Detroit is getting a thorough combing.

There some of Hoffa's men are on trial charged with extortion and conspiracy to monopolize the juke box business. Hoffa himself has been called by congressional probbers the "brains" of some Detroit shakedown rackets and terrorism.

Hoffa charges all this is an attack on his union and that he's not made an illegal move. This he may soon get a chance to prove. There's a tremendous, precedent-making case in the offing.

Hitting, Pitching Feature Little League All-Star Squad

Team Batting Mark Is .313; E. Smith, Herman, Hunter Lead Mound Corps; Managers Named

The Little Major League All-Star team, which was picked at a managers' meeting earlier this week, features a powerful hitting attack and a top pitching staff.

The team batting average for the 14 sluggers is .313. The hurling corps will be headed by Elmer Smith of Sekely's, David Hunter of VFW, Paul Herman of Electric Furnace, and Jimmy Lehawald of Mullins.

Last year, the Salem All-Stars reached the finals of the district tournament at Campbell before being eliminated. This year officials feel the locals stand a good chance of progressing even further.

Al Carlos and Ralph Mancuso will be the All-Star managers.

The rest of the team is as follows with their batting averages where available:

Ned Chappell (.481), Sekely, Tim Birchfield (.407) and Fella Cat-

Hunter is leading the league with a .320 average, Smith is batting .357, Lehawald is hitting .471 and Herman stands at .333.

All players must report for the first practice session at 3:30 p.m. at Centennial Park.

Only four players were able to break 80.

Miss Doran and Miss Diringer were followed by Miss Betty Kerby of Akron, with a 78; and Miss Jean Hopkins of Cleveland, with a 79.

Match play will continue through Friday when the last two survivors will meet over the 36 hole route for the title.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics have exchanged four members of their pitching staff with their Ottawa International League farm club.

The A's called up lefthander Johnny Gray and righthander Charley Bishop. Righthanders Bob Trice and Ossie Van Brabant were sent to Ottawa.

Trice requested the change "for more seasoning."

NL All-Stars Favored 8-5

Alston To Put Mays
In Lineup Quickly

By JOE REICHLER

CLEVELAND (AP)—Willie (The Wallop) Mays and Theodore (The Thumper) Williams, two of baseball's top glamor guys, were not in the starting lineups but both were expected to see plenty of action in today's annual All-Star Game at Cleveland's vast Municipal Stadium.

This was in the nature of promises (or threats) made by National League Manager Walter Alston and his American League counterpart, Casey Stengel, as the rival All-Star pilots discussed the lineups and personnel of their squads on the eve of the 21st midsummer classic.

The Nationals, winners of the last four interleague clashes, ruled a decided 8-5 favorite over the revamped and injury-riddled Americans. But Stengel, in understandably high spirits over his New York Yankees' recent rash of victories, brimmed with confidence that he would win his first All-Star game after four successive losses.

Game time is 1:30 p.m., EDT. "The other fellows are supposed to have all the home run hitters," he said wolfishly. "What do you think I've got? A bunch of powder puffs?"

"I've got a fellow named Williams. Know him? They tell me he's hit a few home runs in his day. . . He'll be in there as soon as the rules permit."

"Mays will be in there at the first opportunity," promised Alston. "I know the fans would like to see him and, for that matter, so would I. It will be nice to have him on my side for a change."

Mays, the New York Giants' sensational outfielder, has banged 9 of his 31 home runs against Alston's Brooklyn Dodgers, including four during the Giants' recent three-game sweep in Brooklyn. Both Mays and Williams finished second in the nationwide fan poll but there is no doubt they're the "people's choice" among the record 70,000 fans who were expected to watch the All-Star spectacle. Mays was second to Brooklyn's Duke Snider for the starting center field post in the National League. Williams, Boston Red Sox slugger, was runner-up to Chicago's Minnie Minoso for the left field berth in the American League.

"My present plans call for Mays to go to center field in the fourth inning," Alston said. "I believe I'll shift Snider to right field and Stan Musial to left. Jackie Robinson, who will start in left, aggravated a knee injury in Sunday's double-header against Philadelphia and should be rested."

"Shifting Snider for Mays does not mean that I regard Willie the better center fielder. It's just that I think Duke can play right field better. He has played three while Willie hasn't. For that matter I may even keep Snider in center and play Mays in left. I won't make up my mind until the last minute."

Stengel, confident that his pitchers will stop "those other guys from hitting homers," explained why he selected Eddie Ford, his own southpaw, over a varied assortment of star right-handers.

"I was thinking of starting Mike Garcia of Cleveland," said the grizzled New York Yankee manager. "But at 2 o'clock Sunday I was told he couldn't pitch because of an injured finger. My guy, Allie Reynolds, also couldn't pitch because of an injury. Most of the others worked Sunday and my guy (Ford) pitched only three innings Saturday. And he looked very good by the way."

"I don't see why I couldn't pitch Ford especially with those guys using three left-handers (Snider, Musial, Ted Kluszewski) in the lineup. He's not afraid of 'em. He's pitched in a couple of World Series, you know. And he won't be back."

Garcia has given up only 34 earned runs in 144 innings for an earned run mark of 2.13; figures compiled by The Associated Press reveal. Johnny also is the league's top hurler in winning percentage (.867) with 13 victories, four of them shutouts, against two sets-backs.

In the American League, Mike Garcia of the Cleveland Indians has wrested the lead from Detroit's Ned Garver. Mike was one of Manager Casey Stengel's All-Star selections but bowed out because of a ruptured blood vessel in the middle finger of his throwing hand.

Garcia has permitted only 32 earned runs in 137 frames for a 2.10 mark and Garver 32 tallies in 131 innings for 2.20. The Tribe's fastballer has won 11 games and dropped five while Garver's record is 6-5.

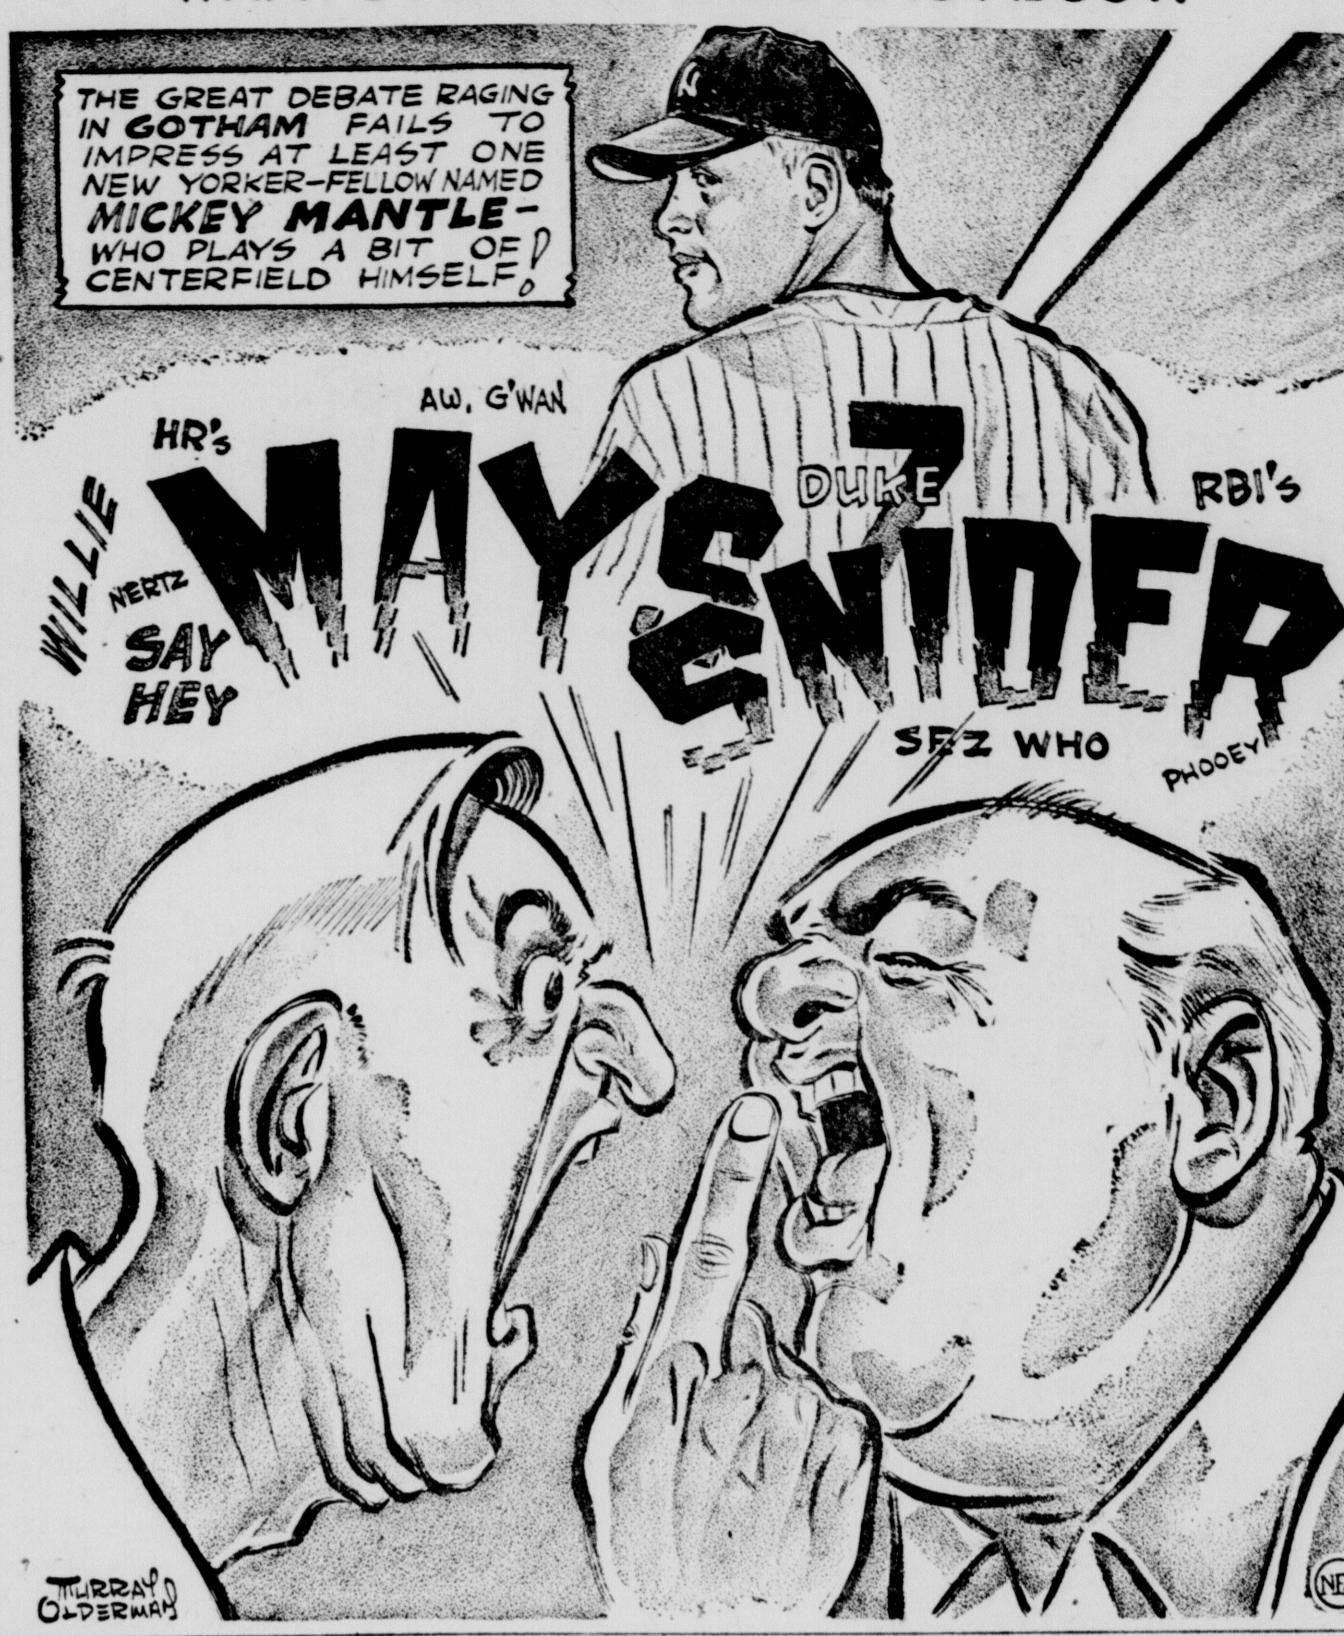

Stengel declined to disclose any more of his pitching plans but he indicated he would use Bob Porterfield, Washington's ace right-hander, in the middle innings and either right-hander Sandy Consagra of the White Sox or Dean Stone, rookie Washington southpaw, in the final three.

Alston said his pitching and replacement plans depended upon the actions of the American League. He already had named Robin Roberts to start. It was the fourth starting assignment for the Philadelphia Phillies' ace right-hander in the last five All-Star games.

"I'll use my men according to the situation," he said. "And as for the pitchers, it all depends upon how they feel. After all, five of the seven pitched on Sunday. I have to find out just who can come back with so short a rest. I may use only three pitchers. Then again, I may have to use all seven."

The game will be beamed to the nation on radio (Mutual) and television (NBC and Mutual).

WHAT'S ALL THE SHOUTING ABOUT?

Grissom Helps Giants Keep At Top Of League Standings

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Sal Maglie of the Giants sat shucking off his soggy uniform the other night, having just scored an important victory over Brooklyn at Ebbets Field, when a member of the assembled press asked the veteran right-hander how many wins he thought he might notch before the season's end.

"If Grissom holds out," he said, grinning, "there's no limit."

It was Maglie's way of paying tribute to Marv Grissom, the 36-year-old relief artist who twice within a week had pulled him out of jams against the Dodgers, once going four brilliant innings to win a 13-inning thriller and again retiring three batters in quick succession after Sal had filled the bases with none out in the ninth.

If the Giants do go on to win the flag, as appears more probable every day, the job that Grissom, the American League castoff, did on the Dodgers in those two tense situations will loom large in the over-all story of the comeback of Lee Durocher's club. In case one is inclined to forget, the Giants finished fifth last year, 35 games behind Brooklyn.

It was just a year ago on July 1 that the Giants, their pitching staff shot, bought Grissom from the Boston Red Sox for the waiver price of $10,000. After less than two full seasons in the big leagues at the end of a long minor league career, Grissom was considered to be washed up.

The Giants, though, had nobody else who could pitch any better at the time, and Durocher used him freely through the latter part of the season, both as a starter and in relief. Although the veteran finished with an over-all record of 6-8 for the season, he was so plainly giving it all he had that he won himself a new home and was taken along with the Giants squad that toured Japan last October.

There, in the land of the pagodas Grissom really found himself. When the club returned, the man who Durocher and resident Horace Stoneham insisted upon talking about when they discussed prospects for the current campaign was their new pitching phenomenon, going on 36 years. Many thought this very funny.

To know how well Marv has repaid his bosses for their faith in him one needs only to look at the record—and at the standing of the Giants. As of this writing, the man who came back from nowhere had pitched in 25 games, 19 of which had resulted in Giant victories.

The Polo Grounders had won 9 of the last 10 games in which the batters had come on from the bullpen. He had wrapped up five games in which Brooklyn, the main foe, had been beaten. His won-loss record is 8-3.

Grissom has not succeeded Hoyt Wilhelm as the National League's best reliever. He merely has complemented his brilliant young teammate, made it possible for Durocher to wave in the knuckleballer less often and not wear him out with 68 appearances, as he did last season.

BACK TO THE GOOD EARTH

A COUNTRY BOY never forgets how to do things down on the farm—even though he's the nation's top man in agriculture. Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson proved this recently when he visited a farm in Fairfax county, Virginia—the same county where George Washington used to carry on farm experiments. Secretary Benson milked a cow, rode a horse, drove a tractor, examined crops, chatted with farmers and drank milk with 4-H club boys and girls. He was born on an Idaho farm, where his parents were pioneers and, in later years, he operated it himself. The secretary has six children. The Fairfax county visit was his first real farming jaunt since he became secretary.

Secretary Benson examines a strand of broom grass on farm of Henry McKnight (left).

He sits on fence to pet "Trig" after a ride. He still knows how to get milk first hand.

Dominic Bell of Leetonia is second in single-A with an even .500.

FIVE PLAYERS have recorded 14 hits, the highest in the Double-A league while Bell is the leading basehit producer in Class A with 17.

Chick Ivan and Bill Ingledue, both of the Old Timers, have batted 35 times to lead the A circuit in that department while Steve Cibula of Demings has appeared 41 times to top the AA boys.

Ed Duco of Demings and Sammy Tingle of Leetonia are the leading run-scorers, Duco countered 16 times and Tingle, on 15 occasions.

The first 15 double-A batters, based on 15 or more times at bat, are:

All-Star Notes

By JERRY LISKA

CLEVELAND (P)—If today's All-Star Game tops the classic's attendance record of 69,812, General Manager Hank Greenberg of the host Cleveland Indians believes it will perk his proposal for regular season inter-league play. The All-Star crowd record was set here in 1935.

Greenberg will present his plan for inter-league games which count in American and National League standings at the July 26 meeting of club owners in New York.

Manager Casey Stengel of the All-Stars was ribbed by somebody that his club might be able to stave off the Nationals until the Giants Willie Mays got into the game.

Stengel retorted that "we got some pretty good center fielders in our league. You take that Jim Busby fellow of Washington. Mickey Mantle might have hit four home runs in Washington Sunday if that Busby wasn't around."

Manager Lippy Durocher and Vice President Club Feeney of the rollicking Giants were the most cheerful duo in the All-Star press quarters last night. The Lip had a kind word for everybody, table-hopping and shaking hands.

Willie Mays was visiting the Larry Doby's the eve of the contest they may face as centerfield rivals.

General Manager FRANK Lane of the White Sox was beaming after his club's four-game sweep over the Indians, until Art Patterson, Yankee publicitor, tossed a meaningful "thanks" at him.

Bill Veeck reported he "slowly but surely" is making progress in his survey to bring major league baseball to Los Angeles. Veeck said it was unlikely he could come up with any proposal at the New York meeting of club owners July 26.

Buck Newsome, the much-traveled big league pitcher, now is a Baltimore TV commentator. He couldn't remember if he appeared in three or four All-Star games. Ted Kluszewski, slugging Cincinnati first sacker, sat with the player representatives for the first time yesterday. He replaced Grady Hatton as the Redleg's team spokesman.

The American Leaguers had four starters quite familiar with Cleveland's Municipal Stadium. They were Al Rosen and Bobby Avila, current Tribe members, and Minnie Minoso of the White Sox, and Ray Boone of the Tigers, former Wigwamers.

Baseball Players Are Organized

Lawyer Says Group Is Not A Union

By JACK HAND

CLEVELAND (P)—The major league baseball players have organized formally into an association with by-laws and a constitution but no dues. J. Norman Lewis, their lawyer, goes out of his way to insist this is no union.

Lewis will receive a reported $30,000 fee for services rendered in helping the players negotiate a new pension contract with the owners.

There is no definite arrangement for the future after October," said Lewis. We didn't discuss it. That is something that probably will be decided later."

Lewis' fee will come out of the central fund into which All-Star Game gate receipts and All-Star and World Series radio-television cash is placed. According to Lewis, the owners' committee already has agreed to the payment and the players followed suit yesterday. Pension payments also are paid out of the same central fund.

The 16 current player representatives, one from each big league club, will continue in office until July 1955 when a general election will be held. The term of office will be two years. In the past there has been no formal term. Two league players representatives also will be elected for two years in 1955.

There will be four regular meetings of the player representatives, the first week in April, All-Star week, World Series week and the first week in December.

The player representatives have been functioning, without by-laws or a positive legal setup, since 1946 after the Mexican League threat when several players "jumped" to Mexico and Robert Murphy, Boston lawyer, tried unsuccessfully to organize a players' union.

To assist in handling the pension fund, Allie Reynolds of the New York Yankees and Ralph Kiner of the Chicago Cubs were elected to two-year terms. They will serve on a four-man committee with John Galbreath, Pittsburgh owner, and Hank Greenberg, Cleveland general manager.

Fred (Rick) Jones, 20-year-old Ohio State sophomore from Youngstown, was the only one in the field able to match par and hit it on the nose by taking a bogey on the final hole.

On his heels, with 73, were two other Youngstownites and Dr. John Lorms of Troy, the 1945 National Intercollegiate champion. Jones' fellow - townsmen were Norman Purucker, a public links star, and Jack Thompson Jr., son of a golf professional.

Defending champion Arnold Palmer, the Cleveland Coast Guardsman, fired a just-for-fun 74. He qualifies automatically for match play running through Saturday, and passed up the fight for the medal. His 74 was tied by George Smith Jr., of Dayton, who with Jones helped Ohio State win the 1954 Big Ten title, and Bob Barton of Columbus, a member of Yale's varsity.

Heavy winds hampered the scorers yesterday, and indications were a total of 160 or 161 strokes would be good enough to qualify for the man-to-man rounds. Only 46 of the 153 were able to break 80. Of the 16 public links entries, only half-dozen or so were expected to qualify. No fee course entrant has ever taken the big prize. This year the best of the Buckeye pay-as-you-go group are playing in the National Public Links event in Dallas, Tex.

Yesterday's scores included: G. Frank Roberts, Lima, 42-42-84; Richard Daniels, Canton, 42-36-78; M. B. Sanderson, Middletown, 41-45-86; Jack Miller, Ashland, 39-39-78; Robert Patterson, East Liverpool, 39-37-76; Dr. Arthur Cloran, East Liverpool, 41-41-82; Dorsey Nevergall, Lima, 42-40-82; Bud Anderson, Alliance, 38-41-79; Jack Whelan, Canton, 37-42-79; Dan Pickering, Canton, 42-45-87; J. D. Thompson Jr., East Liverpool, 44-44-88; Howard B. Saunders, Gallipolis, 42-37-79; Cliff Sweeney, Middletown, 42-45-87; W. G. Greene, Middletown, 42-41-86; C. O. Porter, Lima, 44-41-85; Dr. W. R. Steele, Middletown, 42-45-87; Gomer C. Wanamaker, Lima, 44-43-87; Charles Kent, Middletown, 44-43-87; Robert Hammerle, Middletown, 44-39-83; Chub Chionchio, Kent, 39-41-80; William Leonard, Lima, 42-36-78; John Gilbert, Bryan, withdrew; Jim Clawson, Martins Ferry, 45-41-86.
